Might Be Worse

The window sash came hurtling down on Kickshaw's shapely head and neck; it nearly spoiled his toilworn crown, and made his ears a hopeless wreck. Then Kickshaw sat and nursed his head, a man reduced to grievous pass: yet, with a cheerful smile. he said. "I'm glad it didn't break the glass." He might have ripped around and swore, till people heard him round a block, or kicked a panel from the door, or thrown the tomcat through the clock; he might have dealt in language weird, and made the housewife's blood run cold, he might have raved and torn his beard, and wept as Rachel wept of old. But Kickshaw's made of better stuff, no tears he sheds, no teeth he grinds; when dire misfortune makes a bluff, he looks for comfort, which he finds. And so he bears his throbbing ache, and puts a poultice on his brain, and says. "I'm glad it didn't break that rich, imported window pane. It never helps a man to beef, when trouble comes and knocks him lame: there's solace back of every grief, if he will recognize Congress Heights Public Improve-

B. H. Warner Entertains at Picnic Luncheon at Wesley Park.

Wesley Fark is being cleared of timber, and underbrush is being cut out by the men, many of whom came to Washington as "hoboes."

Several Addresses Made.

Yesterday's luncheon was held under the trees, the men participating, and after it was ended the men were given holiday for the remainder of the day. A number of short addresses were made by Mr. Warner's guests, who numbered about seventy-five.

Among those who spoke were William H. De Lacy, former judge of the Juvenile Court; William F. Gude, Walter S. Ufford, secretary, and George H. on, member, of the board of the Associated Charities; Lieut. J. H. Giles of the seventh police precinct, George H. Winslow of the Railroad Y. M. C. A., J. L. Bates, overseer of the work at the park; Mrs. Harriett E. Munroe of the Gospel Mission, Rev. G. W. Atkinson of Grace P. E. Church, Galen E. Tait and Supt. H. W. Kline of the Gospel Mission. Prayer was said and "America" was sung at the end of the luncheon.
